

Making the Most with Films in the Classroom (Grades 5-12)

Place: Cleveland State University School of Film and Media Arts, Idea Center Building, 1375 Euclid Avenue, 6th Floor, Cleveland, OH

Time: 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon

Presenter: Eric Siler, Instructor, Cleveland State University School of Film and Media Arts

Curriculum Area: Arts, Foreign/World Languages, Film

AGENDA

FilmSlam® Streams is a free, media literacy educational program that aims to educate students in grades 5-12 about evaluating and critiquing the messages they perceive while viewing films. Films provide students with learning opportunities, including fostering thought-provoking discussion, analysis, cultural awareness, critical thinking, and social-emotional growth. Each film included in FilmSlam® Streams has an accompanying study guide that includes curriculum links and goals, vocabulary, discussion questions, and writing, learning, and research project ideas to incorporate as further study.

In this NEOEA Day workshop session, learn how to access and incorporate this free resource into your classroom as we review examples of short films, study guides, discussion topics, and sample activities.

RESERVATIONS

Cost: Free (no lunch break). Send registration form to Gabrielle Burrage at gabrielle@clevelandfilm.org. For further information, contact Gabrielle Burrage at gabrielle@clevelandfilm.org or 216.623.3456. Deadline: Oct. 4, 2024. (Limited to 75 participants.)